

Photos from the original book

With the new edition, the opportunity was taken to replace the original photos. Due to several requests, here they are:

The Vikings ponder- are there Saxons laying in ambush up on these cliffs. Contrary to popular misconception (e.g. Airfix), horned and winged helmets like these were not worn by Vikings.

The first arrow that signals the noon raid on the French bombard.

The Roundhead and Cavalier patrols meet in the land.

Luke Garbett and some of his pirate crew.

Tom Plunkett's riflement and Lieutenant Leger's voltigeurs erupt from the cover of the house.

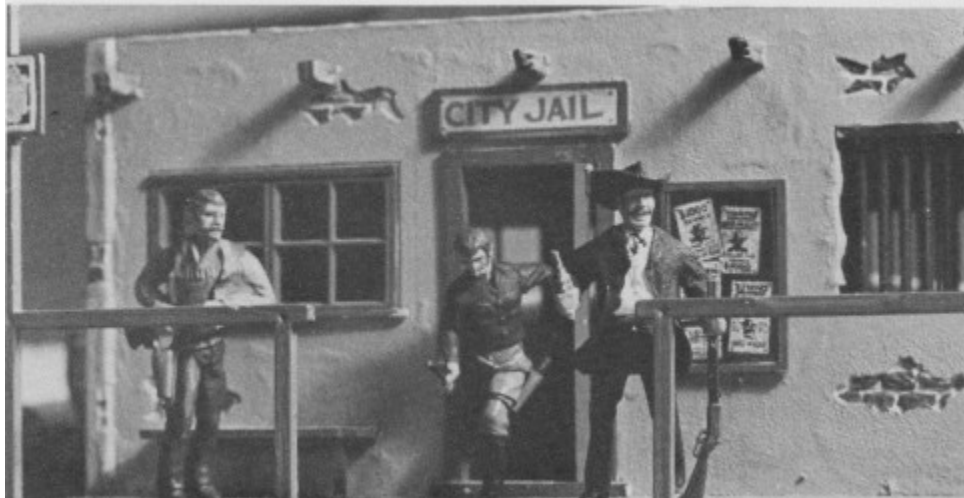

Mounted Mexican guerrillas in hot pursuit of Sergeant-Major's Legionnaires.

The legionnaires prepare for their final stand.

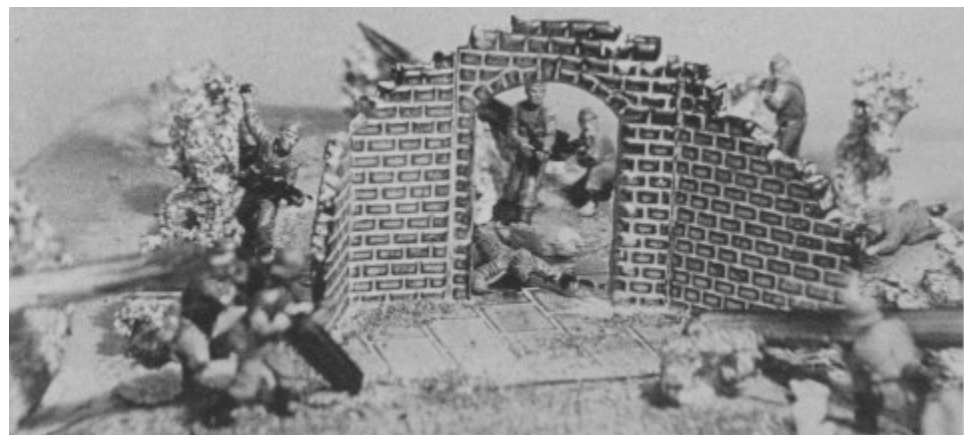

Zulus erupt over the crest of the hill hard on the heels of the English fugitives.

Sheffiff Bud Boyle and his deputies prepare for trouble.

Lieutenant Lindsay and his party attack the German pillbox

Grefreiter Wiegman and his two men lie in wait for the New Zealanders inside the ruins of the Continental Hotel